Learning and Behaviour Policy

This policy is designed to:

- Ensure rules are simple and clear for all staff and learners to understand
- Encourage staff and learners to adopt a positive approach to behaviour and learning
- Help staff and learners feel and stay safe
- Maintain consistency across all areas of learning

A positive approach to learning and behaviour management

A learner's success is related to their positive perception of themselves and their learning environment. We learn more when we feel happy and safe. At Roots & Shoots we rely upon staff to create positive environments, including the physical layout of the class, the lesson planned and the attitudes which reside in that class.

We expect all staff to communicate clearly with learners and treat all them fairly, equally, positively and firmly when required.

We value individuality and expect nothing less from our staff. Staff have been recruited for their brilliant attitude towards others as much as their skills and experiences. Some staff may appear firmer, some may appear to smile more. This does not matter. What does matter is that staff operate professionally, consistently and feel supported enough to bring their own individual personalities to work each day.

Are you ready for work?

As a vocational training college much of the work we do is geared towards work. Learners must show that they are moving towards being ready for work in every way. This includes excellent punctuality, a consistent work ethic and positive approach to working with others.

Every day is a new start

Many young people come to Roots & Shoots with negative perceptions of education from repeatedly being involved in negative experiences and feel stuck in this role. Many young people do so well at Roots & Shoots because it provides a fresh start.

A sense of humour

As an education provider this is a vital ingredient. However, humour is subjective and some will find different approaches to humour difficult to understand, in some cases feel threatened or upset by seemingly harmless remarks. Particularly when working with young people with learning difficulties it is vital to consider the power of language and be sensitive in your approach.

Consistency

As a small college everyone who attends relies upon consistency across the board. Please share your experiences with other staff as this will promote consistency and staff are likely to be able to offer guidance and support. Informal talks or staff meetings are both valuable opportunities to share your experiences.

Learning agreements

Agreements are created during collaborative group discussion in which learners are encouraged to share ways in which their experience of learning can be improved.

- Agreements are collaborative documents which are visible
- They should adopt a positive approach (Use 'Do...' rather than 'Do not...')
- Learners have played a role in their creation and feel ownership
- They should be updated regularly to remind learners

Time Out

Time Out can be given to learners who cannot continue with the current activity. The student could have their time out inside or outside the classroom. If another staff member is available this could be supervised in another area. For example:

1. A student who is so happy that they cannot stop talking or focus could be asked to take a time out in the corner of the room. Deep breath and relax!
2. A student who becomes upset could take a time out outside the classroom, alone and be called back in when they feel better
3. A student who is displaying negative behaviour takes time outside the class room with an LSA (or other) to briefly discuss what is concerning them and preventing learning

Warning System

Tutors can use warnings to acknowledge inappropriate behaviour and remind individuals and groups of the Learning Agreement. Warning can be given for:

- Rude and disruptive behaviour
- Bullying of any nature
- Dangerous behaviour

The Warning System is simple and to be used by tutors to provide firm boundaries

- Warning 1 is dealt with in class by the tutor
- Warning 2 can be dealt with in class and may require support of other staff

- Warning 3 results in a call/ written letter to the learner and their family.
 - This may result in a learner being sent home for the rest of the day
 - In serious cases a learner will be suspended for between 1 day and 1 week

Serious concerns

In some cases learners will receive a suspension. This decision will be made if:

- The warning system has not helped the learner's behaviour to improve
- A learner's behaviour repeatedly contradicts the learning agreement
- A learner is aggressive and/or violent towards another person

The length of suspension depends upon the severity of the incident and the nature of the learner's needs and timetable. For example:

- 1) A delayed suspension may be desirable if an activity which is deemed important for the learner's wellbeing is not to be missed
- 2) A short suspension (1 day) may be desirable if it is deemed more valuable for the learner to continue having structured, timetabled care
- 3) A longer suspension (1 week) may be desirable if there are outstanding matters which must be dealt with requiring time and planning of external parties

Exclusion

In some situations a learner's place will be closed if we can no longer meet their needs. This is an exclusion and something we try to avoid having invested time and resources into a young person and the process being potentially traumatic for the learner and their family.
